

IMPLEMENTING THE TREATY OF WAITANGI IN THE WORKPLACE

This workshop

This interactive workshop briefly examines the historic events that led to the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi in 1840 then focusses on how to implement the principles identified by the 1988 Royal Commission on Social Policy.

The workshop focuses on how the principles can be utilised positively to support change, equity and outcomes for all. Participants will develop understandings they can implement in their workplace.

Implementing Treaty principles in the workplace can be challenging, this workshop is designed to reduce barriers, and support outstanding outcomes for all.

Participants are invited to bring along information and experiences for discussion and resolution in the workshop. A resource book will be supplied which will provide a range of supportive information and templates for those attending to draw on.
